LICENSE ORDINANCE PASSES; TAKEN UP BY PARAGRAPH

Passes Second Reading Before Council Last Night.

OTHER BUSINESS UP

Officials Of Water Company To Be Arrested By Street Commissioner.

The ordinance providing for the licensing of various things throughout town was taken up by council at a special meeting last night. The ordinance was taken up by paragraph and the separated articles decided upon, after which it passed second reading and was referred back to the ordinance committee to insert the changes which were made. The team licenses were not changed greatly from the former. Brokers must pay, and house auctioneer after a period of three months here, pawnbroker, team ferrymen, for shooting gallery and bowling alleys, were placed on the list of places to be licensed.

What caused considerable discussion was the hawker's and peddlar's license. The section as prepared was thrown out and five sections of a statute passed years ago, together with a slight addition proposed by Councilman Frye were adopted. It made the charge very reasonable, at $35 per year for a one horse wagon, and $50 for a two horse wagon. The license for circus is left as it formerly was, but license fee of $10 is attached for side shows. Various amusements, and opera house licenses were not greatly changed, although [illegible] were made, and [illegible] making explicit [illegible]posed.

Work on No. 8 Dam.

No. 8 dam in the upper Ohio river is progressing so rapidly that the Gillespie company, which has the contract, expects to be done by December 15. Rivermen hope this dam can be operated next year. J. Frank Tilley, secretary of the Pittsburg Coal Exchange; Captain Arthur Moren, of the River Coal company, and several members of Harbor No. 25 visited No. 8 yesterday after having looked over the ground at the proposed harbor line at New Cumberland. The new dam pleased the rivermen.

TAMPERING WITH JURY IS HINTED

Sensation Sprung In The W. L. Lenhart Case Now On Trial.

A sensation was sprung in the conspiracy case against William L. Lenhar yesterday afternoon, during the cross examination of the defendant, when Attorney Owen C. Underwood placed an offer on the records in which he stated the state would endeavor to show that William L. Lenhart had four different men in his employ staying at hotels where jurymen are staying for the purpose of looking after the defendant's interests in the case on trial. The defendant upon a question denied the assertion.

Another intimation thrown out by the commonwealth was that the defense had endeavored to influence one Allen Todd, a witness for the commonwealth. The defendant was asked if he was present at Mr. Irwin's office when he told Mr. Todd the subpoena was not legal. Mr. Lenhart said he did not know of Mr. Irwin telling Mr. Todd that. Nothing further was asked regarding this matter. The man was said to have tried to evade a subpoena. A constable was sent after him on Tuesday.

The defendant was on cross examination yesterday from 11:30 until court adjourned at 4:30, not including the noon hour, and in that time he was put through a severe grilling. Attorney Underwood fired one question after another and delved deep into his dealings with the People's Bank of California, with O. F. Piper and with other banks, his interests and management of the Chatland and Lenhart cracker firm, the W. S. Powers company, and everything in connection wih his business and acts during the time he was securing the loans from the People's Bank of California. He was pinned down closely to tell just how much money he put into the Chatland and Lenhart company, the W. S. Powers company and how much he spent for personal purposes.

Following this cross-examination the business of the W. S. Powers company was taken up and Lenhart was closely cross-examined as to his connection with this firm, the money he put into it and other business transactions while he was treasurer of this company. It was brought out by the cross-examination that Lenhart borrowed money and had notes discontinued on the majority of the banks in and about Pittsburg.

When asked how much he yet owed the People's Bank of California, Lenhart replied about $31,000 He was then questioned relative to an alleged conversation at the office of Attorney Freeman, at which time he did not dispute that he owed the bank $69,000. He did not recall this conversation.

The defendant, who took the stand Wednesday afternoon, completed his direct testimony about 11:30 o'clock yesterday. He denied in his tetimony practically all that was testified to by Mrs. Cowell, except as to some minor details. He denied her testimony as to the frequent trips to California. A denial was also made of the testimony of G. O. Teeple, that he had ever opened his satchel on the train and displayed large sums of money. As to his ever showing Mr. Teeple

Youths On Long Walk Stop In Charleroi

Edgar L. Ruth and William H. Hope, Youthful Pedestrians On Way To Pacific Coast.

Edgar L. Ruth, aged 22 years, of 240 Eighth street, Allentown, Pa., and William H. Hope, aged 25 years of 805 Phillips avenue, Carrick, arrived in Charleroi last evening and spent the night here enroute to San Francisco, Cal., walking the entire distance, which by the route the young men are taking is about 4000 miles They will go through the South and expect to complete their journey within eighteen months. The youthful pedestrians intend walking back home following the route of the Northern Pacific railway. The trip is being taken principally as a sightseeing tour.

Ruth and Hope started from the downtown office of the Pittsburg Press Tuesday afternoon. They made very good time reaching Monongahela yesterday afternoon and coming on here in the evening.

All the expenses of the journey will be earned as the pedestrains progress. Ruth will easily be able to pay his way, being an electrician, sign painter and singer. However he will work at other things along the way. Hope will also secure employment in various lines along the route, to enable him to make enough funds to not only pay the daily expenses but have something over when they reach the coast.

The younger man is the most experienced in traveling. A few weeks ago he was one of a party of eight which started to walk from New York City to Savanna, Ga., and one of the three who completed the trip. The youths have a letter from Superintendent Thomas A. McQuaide of Pittsburg and several clippings from newspapers along the route passed through thus far.

Ruth and Hope left here this morning about 8:40 o'clock on their way to Brownsville and Uniontown. Larger points of their itenary are:

CHARLEROI BOYS ARE DISCHARGED BY THE COURT

William Gilmore and Scott Workman of Charleroi, charged with attempting to enter the wharf house of the Ohio and Monongahela Packet company at Charleroi were tried yesterday. Being bothered with thefts the company put a guard on last June. That night a crowd of young men was seen to approach the building, try the lock, and being frightened away by the approach of a steamer, hurried through a hedge nearby, tore a board off the ball park fence and went into that place. They were quickly followed by George Dawson, one of the guards, who succeeded in catching Workman and Gilmore. The defendants deny their guilt and claim they were just crossing the park, and that as they entered the crowd came through the fence. They did not run, they said, because there was no reason why they should run. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty.

Max Rubenstein, a young Hebrew, of Donora, of nice appearance, was tried yesterday on an ugly charge, on oath of Mrs. Flora E. Divens, a colored woman. Young Rubenstein is married and his wife sat with him during the trial. The defendant is of only medium stature and the negress is almost an Amazon. The testimony indicated that Rubenstein was not guilty, and the jury acquitted him and placed the costs on the private prosecutor.

The jury yesterday in case of commonwealth against Crawford Sarver, Ellsworth, found him guilty of assault and battery. He was sentenced to pay costs, fine of $10 and undergo imprisonment, in the county jail for a period of 60 days. Sheridan Malone was the private prosecutor and the trouble grew out of a drunken row.

BOARD OF HEALTH TO CALL ATTENTION OF COUNCIL

Milk Ordinance Still On Table No Action Having Been Taken.

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES

Few Cases Throughout Town Of Typhoid And Liptheria.

The Board of Health met last night and took up several matters under their supervision. Among the principal business was that of the milk ordinance which was presented to the borough council during the first part of June for action and which has not been taken up yet by that body. After discussing the matter at some length, a resolution was passed that attention of council should be brought to the matter and if possible have the ordinance passed and put into force. The Health Board argue that pure milk is something in which all the residents of this place are interested and should be protected by an ordinance, as in accordance with the state law. The borough council have been negligent in the matter and should take it up at the first opportunity. The ordinance was drawn up to go into effect the first of July, and was constructed so that it has most effect during the hot months of summer.

Health Officer Darby made a report of work in his hands. He stated that 37 nuisances had been abated since the last meeting. From reports it was learned that there are few cases of contagious diseases in the town.

CHARLEROI NOT IN IT WITH BABES

Bert Humphries Touched Up For Fourteen Safeties.

When Fairmont went to the ball park yesterday they left all their respect for opposing slabmen at the hotel, and when they started pounding Bert Humphries they didnt' know when to quit. Bert was hit so hard that several times it was plainly visible that he had sufficient but remained throughout the game. Hunt, who did the elegant for the Fairmonter's was very much of a puzzle, in fact so much so that until the seventh inning no Charleroi swatter but Nally was able to connect safely.

Fairmont registered their first run in the second inning. With one down Snodgrass singled and took second on Haughts out. Gates singled which sent him to third. When Dailey threw the ball away in his effort to catch Snodgrass at third the run came over. A single, a batter hit, a tripple and another for three sacks sent in three runs in the fourth. The seventh inning was the one in which the Fairmont boys tried to break up the game. With one down Hunt started the donigs with a single and when things were finished every player on the team had faced Bert, six hits for four runs being the result.

Nally was the only member of the Charleroi team that was able to connect with Hunts slants until the seventh inning. On his first visit Nally picked one off for three bases. After Cosgrove had skied to right Dunn and Dailey filled the bases by getting hit. It sure looked like at least two runs but two strikeouts by Toohey and Heinz killed all chances. In the third Nally again led off and hit to right field fence. The drive was good for two bags but he tried to make it three and was caught sliding into third. The next safe drive was in the sixth and it was Nally that got it, as he drove out a single over second base. Charleroi had three on in the ninth but could not avoid a shutout. Score::

Danger From Roots.

According to a report of the street commissioner of Charleroi, if something is not done soon towards providing a way to stop the growth of roots of thousands of Carolina poplars into the sewers and flush tanks of this place an entire new sewer system will have to be installed throughout town.

The residents of this place have purchased and planted these trees in front of their properties on account of their rapid growth and excellent shade furnished after they have matured, paying no attention to the danger to property afforded by the speedy growth of the roots. When a fiber once gets into a sewer, the root will on account of the dampness, spread more rapidly than ever, and if not cleaned out in a very short time clog the sewers and eventually burst the pipes. The roots are very fine and easily creep through a very small aperture.

A member of the borough council whose attention was called to the matter recently in a conversation expressed himself to the effect that action should be taken and that at once, and if nothing else an ordinance should be passed requiring the residents to kill their trees should they be found to be endangering the sewers of street or alley.

Many Americans who live in or near large cities would be surprised to hear it stated that the United States has the poorest roads of any civilized country in the world. Nevertheless, the satement is declared by all who have had opportunity to learn by experience to be unquestionably true, when the roads of the whole country are considered.

Lately there has been much criticism of the automobile as being destructive of good roads. The damage is so great that in France the government has been forced to take up the matter and is even now studying preventive plans.

In the United States, however, it may be that the automobile will yet prove a powerful influence for better roads. The American Automobile Association recently held a two days good roads convention in Buffalo, at which provision was made for practical demonstation of the best methods of road building and repairing, and for experiments looking towards the discovery of a binding material for surfacing roads which will not be sucked out by pneumatic tires.

There are signs too that the old policy of throwing on the towns the burden of building the roads and keeping them in repair is to be superseded by the more senible plan of having the State do it. The towns will of course, care for their own streets but the main highways should be built and cared for by the State as they are in France, Germany and Switzerland.

The national government has decided to send the director of the Deparment of Roads to the international good roads convention which will open in France in October, and at which the problem of the automobile and the roads will receive special attention.

Despite the fact that the United States has established a reputation for many things in the industrial world, she is bested by Austria in providing for the safety of her miners. The law compels mine owners in that country to provide rescue chambers under ground and have each room large enough to accommodate 241 persons and must be provided with canned food and first aid appliances.

It might be an excellent idea for the mine owners of this up-to-date country in which we live, to seek the enaction of a law similar to that of Austria and thus secure the thousands of miners from many dangers.

IMPORTANT ARE CHANGES TO BE MADE IN SERVICE

Important changes in through and local passenger service are to be made by the initial lines when the fall time table becomes effective. Officials of the Pennsylvania lines east and west, the Baltimore and Ohio, the Pittsburg and Lake Erie and Wabash officials have already taken this matter up in a general way and a series of meetings will be held within the next few weeks, when definite action will be taken. Passenger officials of the various divisions and branch lines will hold their annual meeting early next month, at which time a list of proposed changes will be made. Arrangements will then be made to meet jointly with operating officials of the different divisions and the new time tables will become effective in October.

According to statements made yesterday the fall and winter time tables this year will be larger than in past years and the number of changes will be greater than in other years. This is due to the fact that practically all of the roads were obliged to issue supplements to the regular time table last year on account of the big decrease in local passenger business and the heavy increase in through traffic. On some roads local business was reduced almost one half on account of the closing of large industrial plants and the reduction in the office forces. More than a dozen suburban trains were taken off at one time by one of the local lines. Through business, however, is much heavier than in 1907, which was a banner year. For this reason additional through trains will be put on by certain lines, while on others the running time will be reduced

One of the interesting features in the fall schedule this year is the fact that the railroads will endeavor to maintain the regular summer schedule for running time throughout the winter. Heretofore it has been customary to lengthen the schedule during the winter, but the officials are confident that with the new equipment the fast schedule can be maintained during the cold weather and the experiment this year will have an important bearing upon through passenger schedules in future years.

WOMEN RELEASED ON BAIL

Somerset, Pa., Aug. 28.—District Attorney Miller announced yesterday after a conference with Judge Kooser that bail in $10,000 each for Mrs. Bonnie Rosenbloom and her daughter would be accepted. Louis of Charleroi and William Rosenbloom, the sons, now at Somerset, arranged with Harry Slutzker of Altoona to put up the bonds. Slutzker is the business man who in March bought the Rosenbloom store building in Windber and later arranged for the property to be restored to the Rosenblooms.

Deputy Sheriff Hanna left Somerset yesterday afternoon for Harrisburg to secure extradition papers to bring the Egler brothers from New York City.

Coroner Fithian at Camden telegraphed to Johnstown yesterday: "Body was buried. Offiicals satisfied with Freidman's identification."

The Rosenblooms desire to give the body an Orthodox Hebrew burial in a Hebrew cemetery if it is proved beyond doubt to be their father. If they insist it will require exhumation.

Chief of Police McMullen of Windber now seems to think it is possible Alexander and the Eglers, if they committed the crime, did not ship the body away from Windber, but buried or hid it somewhere near Winbder.

OFFICIALS INSPECT P. R. R. TRACKS

S. C. Long, general superintendent of the Western Pennsylvania division of the Pennsylvania railroad, accompanied by his staff, yesterday made a general inspection of tracks and shops along the divisions entering Pittsburg from the east. The inspection party left the Union station early yesterday morning and went over the Monongahela division, the main line east and the Conemaugh divisions, as well as some of the other small branch lines east of Pittsburg.

Particular attention was given to the shops where the working force has been increased during the past week. The officials announced that they found the tracks in fairly good condition, although the appropriation for maintenance work this year is comparatively small. Supervisors are now getting the tracks in their respective districts in good condition for the winter traffic.

WEARY WILLIES WILL NOT BE PERMITTED

Any bum who sets his foot on Monessen soil must understand that he is trifling with danger, according to regulations of the police of that place. The police are out after all gents that look in the least suspicious. Of late it has been the custom for some travelers not having the neatest personal appearance to invade the residence sections of the town and make a house to house canvass asking for a handout at each place, but in many instances the mission is presented in a command rather than a request with the result that the lady of the house becomes badly frightened. Several times neigbhors have been called before the hobo would consent to leave the premises. It is such fellows as these that the police are after and when a suspicious looking individual thrusts his presence upon the community he must be able to give the proper account of himself or he is marched off to the lockup and a charge of vagrancy placed against him. This is one of the towns that has no use for the straggler.

Easier.

"That house I have taken from you," said the dissatisfied tenant, "is horribly drafty. When I am sitting in the middle of the room my hair blows all over my head. Can't you do something to the windows?"

"Don't you think, sir," replied the house agent suavely, "it would be easier and cheaper for you to get your hair cut?"—London Telegraph.

$5,000 he emphatically denied this, and said he never drew $5,000 in cash from the People's Bank of California.

A large number of notes and checks were placed in evidence by the defense to show that Lenhart had transacted businesss at the bank, had satisfied notes, and received back these notes. A number of checks were offered in evidence to show that he had deposited sums in other banks to his credit at the People's Bank of California, but that no record of these credits was made on the books of the California bank.

ARMY OFFICER IN AUTOMOBILE

Driving the sturdy little Buick racing runabout in which he crossed the continental Divide and negotiated the sandy coasts of the American Desert on his trip from San Francisco to New York last spring, Lieutenant Stanley Lewis of the Arizona Rangers, honorary Colonel of the 16th Mexican Rurales, ex-major of Cuban revolutionits and well known as a writer of military topics for the Munsey publications, drove into Charleroi today, pausing for a brief overhauling of his machine by Spencer Bros. Mr. Lewis is enjoying a year's furlough from his duties in the "Rangers," who are an organization of hard-riding, straight-shooting border police, under the control of the war department but similar in scope to our own constabulary or the mounted police of Canada.

Colonel Lewis made a brief but pleasant call at the Mail office. He is intimately acquainted with the Hain's brothers who have gained such reputation in New York.

Miners and Tuberculosis.

A mining journal published at Scranton has been calling attention to the curious fact that in coal mining communities there is a marked deficiency in the mortality from tuberculosis as compared with that of other localities. This is a phenomenon that has also been observed in Great Britain, and attention has been drawn to it by B. H. Thwaite.

According to Mr. Thwaite, the effects noted may be due to the physiological effects of carbon monoxide, for he finds that men engaged about blast furnaces and gas producers are peculiarly free from tuberculosis trouble.

It is suggested in Mines and Minerals that the presence of carbon dust in the lungs may be a cause of production of CO, and that this will serve to explain that immunity of miners from the disease.

The tubercle baccillus is a creature of extreme tenacity of life. It is encased in a waxy integument, and is proof against even nitric acid, but gases are so penetrating in their powers of diffusion that it can well be considered that carbonic oxide might reach the tissues of a treaure in subtle manner, for the gas cannot be perceived.

Garbage and Garage.

The other day Claude wrote: "Isn't it about time we were renewing our boyhood acquaintance? Send me a photograph of your home." Nothing loath, Frank ordered the town photographer to prepare 100 post card pictures of his home and surroundings, and of these sent a dozen different views to Claude. He did not discover until too late that three big garbage barrels were in the foreground. In a couple of weeks Claude sent a dozen views of his mansion to Frank, and in the foreground were three beautiful automobiles, with a marble garage hard by. "Only that small letter divides us," wrote the surgeon; 'you have the garbage, I have the garage; I have the autos, you have the barrels." Frank, feeling rather humiliated, telegraphed: "Garbage barrels a mistake of photographer, they belong to my neighbor." Claude replied: "Same with my autos and garage; got in by mistake: belong to my neighbor."—New York Press.

Air Ship at Butler.

Butler, Pa., Aug. 27.—With games and pool selling barred, as in former years, the Butler fair today had the largest attendance in its history. The record of 30,000 last year on the third day was exceeded by 10 per cent. Extra cars were run on the Pittsburg and Butler and the Pittsburg, Harmony, Butler and New Castle trolley lines and extra trains on the Baltimore and Ohio and Bessemer railroads.

At noon a sail was taken by Charles Hamilton in his airship. The ship was up for half an hour and was in perfect control. The crowds were orderly and little thieving is reported. Six confidence men got the "move on" order from the police this morning. Last night the homes of J. Neale and William Wagner were robbed of catables.

Five Families Have Reunions.

Washington, Pa., Aug. 28.—Interesting family reunions were held in Washington county yesterday. That of the descendants of Rev. Dr. John McMillan was held at the Chartiers Presbyterian church. Three hundred descendants of John White gathered in Washington Park. Two hundred persons met at the old Swagler homestead, near Scenery Hill, where the first reunion of the Swagler family was held. The Paul family met at the home of Philip Cooper, near Van Buren, and the Swart family held its reunion at the residence of Mrs. Sarah Hornin South Franklin township.

Grocers Hit Hard

Grocers who fail to keep screens over the goods displayed in front of their places are hard hit in the last issue of the Bulletin of the State Dairy Department. It is all because of the flies and bugs that are enabled thereby to trample at will over the food stuffs sold to customers. Flies in particular are declared to be carriers of diseases, and any grocer who will let them cross on the things he offers for sale is declared to be a bad one.

More business has come to the Ambridge works of the American Bridge company during the past week through the releasing of 4,000 tons of structural material of an existing contract with the Harriman railroads in the West. The bridge company has supplied a portion of the contract and some of it was held up. This additional 4,000 tons was a part of an order for 10,000 tons. It will require increased operations at the plant and enlarge the working force of men there.

Elizabeth Boy Disappears.

John Junn, fifteen years of age, has been missing from his home at Elizabeth for nearly three weeks. He is a step-son of Joseph Junn, and had complained frequently of ill treatment at his hands, telling his companions a number of times that he was going to run away from home. He had a dog to which he was greatly attached, and on the day of his disapperance, August 7, his stepfather told him he would have to kill it. The boy left that afternoon, saying he was going to see a game of baseball. That was the last seen of him at his home, and the dog disappeared with him.

After being absent a week, the dog made its appearance at the Junn home again, but nothing has been seen or heard of the boy. He was smart enough, before leaving home, to gather up all pictures of himself about the house and take them with him, so that no portrait of him could be made from any of them to aid in a search for him. His mother has been almost distracted over his absence, and has made every effort to find him. She has now taken her bed [illegible] fatigue of the search [illegible] his disappearance.

Making More Than a Living

Nearly every man who works steadily makes more than a living. During these slow times the men who have saved something appreciate what it is to have something laid away for a rainy day. A few cents a day soon counts up, and when savings are placed in a bank at a tidy interest the sum soon grows to proportions that make it a safeguard against want when work is not plentiful. Figure up how much more than a living you are making now, and place the difference in this bank. Four per cent. interest paid in savings department.

HIS MAGIC FAILED.

The Result Was Physically Painful and a Blow to His Reputation.

"One of the funniest things that ever happened to me," said the old magician, who was in a reminiscent mood, "occurred a number of years ago while I was making a tour of the country. At that time my favorite card was the box trick, where I allowed myself to be put in a sack, after which I was locked in a box, which was tied up and put in the cabinet, from which I emerged a moment later, bowing and smiling. It always brought down the house and was a subject for discussion long after I had left.

"Well, I gave my performance one night at a small town, and after the show was over I went to the little hotel and retired for the night, the old man who kept the hotel showing me to my room with all the deference that he would give to a king. The bed in the room was a folding one, and no sooner was I in than it closed up like a jackknife. Fortunately for me, I realized what was happening in time to roll to one side, so that when the bed closed it left my head out. But otherwise I was powerless, and there was nothing to do but yell for help, which I did to the best of my ability. Finally I succeeded in making the landlord hear me, and he came to the door and wanted to know what the matter was.

"'This cussed bed has shut up and caught me in it!' I shouted.

"'Waal, why don't ye git out?' he drawled.

"'I can't!' I bawled.

"'Humph! A feller what kin git out of a sack after he has been put in a box and locked up ought ter be able ter git out of a bed,' he answered.

"It took fifteen minutes' steady argument on my part to convince the old man that my skill in getting out of difficult places did not include folding beds, and even then he seemed to think I had caused him a lot of unnecessary trouble.

"All he said when at last he released me was:

"'Humph! Ye ain't ez big a man ez I thought ye wuz!'"—Detroit Free Press.

Baseball Fans.

"Dear me," remarked the perspiring old lady who was making her first visit to a baseball game, "I don't see how people can tell such terrible fibs."

"What now, auntie?" asked the city niece, in surprise.

"Why, the paper stated that there were thousands of 'fans' out here every afternoon, and I am suffering with the heat and can't find one."—Chicago News.

Wise Precaution.

The mercury was trying to ooze out at the top of the farmhouse thermometer, and the old farmer was pitching chunks of ice in the pond.

"What are you doing that for?" queried the summer boarder.

"That's t' keep th' pesky ducks from layin' hard b'iled eggs," answered the rural philosopher.—Pittsburg Post.

Inconsistent.

"Ye lazy loafer," cried big Mrs. Hoolahan, "stroike or no stroike I'll not hov ye standin' round doin' nothin'!"

"Well, well," meekly replied little Hoolahan, "'tis most our'asonin' ye are. Last Chewsd'y ye told me if I didn't behave mesel' ye'd make me stand round, an' now thot I'm doin' it ye kick."—Philadelphia Press.

A Matter of Policy.

"I observe," said the friend, "that you always speak kindly of your political opponent."

"Yes," answered Senator Sorghum. "It is just as well. It conveys the impression that I have him beaten and can afford to be generous."—Washington Star.

A Fakir.

THE CARD TRICK.

How They Say It Was Worked on an Austrian Official.

An amusing railway carriage joke is being told in Paris at the expense of M. Derschatta, the Austro-Hungarian minister of railways. The minister does not smoke and has a perfect horror of tobacco. What was his chagrin, then, on seating himself in a non-smoking carriage in a train near Vienna to see a fellow passenger light a large cigar.

The minister coughed insinuatingly without effect. The minister coughed more loudly and then as violently as he could. All in vain. The smoker continued to emit clouds.

"Sir," said the minister, "will you allow me to observe that this is a non-smoking compartment?" "Oh!" said the smoker. "Well, it doesn't matter." "But, sir, the authorities"— "The authorities? Oh, they don't matter." "Pardon me, sir, but I am the minister of railways. Let me give you my card."

The smoker took the card, read it and quietly put it in his pocket. "So you're the minister for railways?" he said. "Oh, well, that doesn't matter."

At the next station the minister called the station master and requested him to take the smoker's name. The smoker produced a card. The station master instantly became apologetic. "Pardon, your excellency," he said; "I did not know to whom I had the honor of speaking. If this fellow"—pointing to the minister—"bothers you, I will make him get out." The smoker gave a condescending gesture, and the train started again.

After a few minutes of utter amazement M. Derschatta realized that the smoker had given the official his (the minister's) card and, being possessed of a sense of humor, burst into a shout of laughter.

Castro's Palace of Steel.

President Castro lives in what is probably the most remarkable dwelling place of any modern ruler. It stands within a park at Caracas and is built almost entirely of steel. The outer walls are covered with a kind of soft stone; so, to look at, there is nothing peculiar about the place, but it is said to be the strongest house in the world, and it will resist the heaviest gun fire.

The idea of a steel "palace" occurred to the president after he had had experience of one or two earthquakes. One night he was awakened by an earth tremor, and in his fright he jumped out of a window and broke his leg. After that he decided that bricks and mortar were not safe; hence the reason for his metal abode.—London M. A. P.

Four Hours of Sleep Not Enough.

Thomas Edison says that four hours of sleep is enough for any one and that it is a waste of time to take any more.

So long, Thomas. Talk about something you are better qualified to discuss. Is your own health so wonderfully steady as to entitle your rules for living to be generally accepted? Wasn't it you who had a mastoid abscess the other day? You are only sixty-one years old. Any one with decent luck can live that long notwithstanding some abuse of natural strength. When you are ninety and still hale your habits of life will become interesting. Do you want people to sit up half the night to use your patent lamps and increase your royalties? Tut, tut, Thomas, don't be so greedy!—Life.

Indian Engineer.

A descendant of Tama's band of Musquakie Indians is now the engineer of a fast passenger train on the Burlington road. He is here on the same ground where his ancestors lived for many generations. He crosses the same rivers, surveys the same landscapes, observes the same phenomena of wind, temperature, storms, etc., that were familiar to his ancestors of centuries ago. He wears more clothes than they wore, and he speaks a different language, and he is serving civilization instead of barbarism. Few if any of the passengers who ride behind him know that a Tama Indian sits in the cab of the engine as it speeds over the prairies.—Burlington Post.

A Chef In a Box.

The old emperor of Austria pays his cook, Perski, $10,000 a year salary. This same Perski was once the cook of Count Rheingaum, and many years ago when the emperor of Austria was dining with the count he was struck with the way a certain boar's head was cooked and desired that the chef should be complimented. Two days afterward a huge packing case arrived at Schoenbrunn with Count Rheingaum's compliments. On being opened the case was found to contain Perski, a bit breathless, but otherwise all right. The emperor laughed at the joke, accepted the gift, and Perski has been the royal chef ever since.

A "Rat Week" Suggested.

Why can we not have "rat week" and let everybody in the United States devote the week, or as much time as possible within the week, to killing rats? It would be the best paying week's work from a money and health standpoint the people ever did. It would be a sanitary labor that would be farreaching in its effects, the benefits from which would be of a lasting character.—Staunton (Va.) Dispatch.

A WALPOLE ANECDOTE.

To Save the Woman's Life She Couldn't Recall Who Told It.

"I heard a very funny story the other night about Horace Walpole," said Mrs. Blake. "I wish I could remember who told it. Henry, can you remember? Was it Mr. Sellers?"

"No," said Blake stiffly; "it wasn't Sellers."

"I wonder if it could have been Mr. Windsor?"

"No," repeated Blake; "it wasn't Windsor."

Before Mr. Blake had a chance to express an affirmative or negative opinion of that hazard as to the source of the Walpole anecdote Mr. Barton came in. Mrs. Blake, being by that time sure of herself, tried on him her recipe for winning universal affection.

"Oh, Mr. Barton," she said, "I am very glad to see you. I have hardly stopped laughing since I saw you the last time."

Mr. Barton, a cadaverous man with solemn eyes, looked rather foolish.

"Indeed?" he said. "May I ask what about?"

"Over that funny story you told about Horace Walpole," said Mrs. Blake.

"M-m-m—Horace Walpole?" stammered Mr. Barton. "I am afraid you must have got me mixed up with somebody else. I don't know the first thing about Horace Walpole, and if I did know anything funny about him I couldn't tell it. To tell a funny story is beyond my powers. Even if it was funny to start with it wouldn't be by the time I got through with it."

Mrs. Blake's spirits were somewhat dashed by her fiasco in finding an owner for the Walpole story, but she bore up courageously, and later when Mr. Markham came in she drew him out of earshot of Mr. Barton and dilated on the pleasure his story of Horace Walpole had given her. Mr. Markham was not cast in the funeral mold that gave to Mr. Barton his grave aspect, but he protested himself totally incapable of telling a funny story about Horace Walpole or anything else.

Presently Mrs. Blake left the room to prepare the sandwiches. Mr. Blake followed her.

"For the love of the Lord," he said, "don't make a fool of yourself again by trying to get some other idiot in there to father that Walpole story. I told you that yarn myself."

Mrs. Blake stood still, with carving knife poised in air.

"You?" she said incredulously. "And it was so clever too."—New York Times.

Silage For Beef.

Everywhere the feeding of silage to dairy cattle and beef cattle, horses and hogs is attracting each year more and more attention. The Ohio experiment station has recently completed a test in which it was established that corn silage under the conditions of the experiment had a value of $4.63 per ton in feeding for beef. In view of this, let any one not feeding silage consider what he is losing when an acre of corn makes ten to fifteen tons of silage.

Green Food For Poultry.

The value of green food for poultry lies in the aid it renders the digestion of other foods and in the effect of distending or adding bulk to the ration, besides affording various and valuable nutrients, particularly protein, which food constituent is indispensable in the growth of any animal. Protein is the element of food which produces bone and muscle, and any growing animal in order to thrive must have the required amount.

LICENSE ORDINANCE PASSES; TAKEN UP BY PARAGRAPH

Passes Second Reading Before Council Last Night.

Officials Of Water Company To Be Arrested By Street Commissioner.

The ordinance providing for the licensing of various things throughout town was taken up by council at a special meeting last night. The ordinance was taken up by paragraph and the separated articles decided upon after which it passed second reading and was referred back to the ordinance committee to insert the changes which were made. The team licenses were not changed greatly from the former. Brokers must pay, and house auctioneer after a period of three months here, penwbroker, team ferrymen, for shooting gallery and bowling alleys, were placed on the list of places to be licensed.

What caused considerable discussion was the hawker's and peddlar's license. The section as prepared was thrown out and five sections of a statute passed years ago, together with a slight addition proposed by Councilman Frye were adopted. It made the charge very reasonable, at $35 per year for a one horse wagon, and $50 for a two horse wagon. The license for circus is left as it formerly was, but license fee of $10 is attached for side shows. Various amusements, and opera house licenses were not greatly changed, although were made, and making explicit posed.

Work on No. 8 Dam.

No. 8 dam in the upper Ohio river is progressing so rapidly that the Gillespie company, which has the contract, expects to be done by December 15. Rivermen hope this dam can be operated next year. J. Frank Tilley, secretary of the Pittsburg Coal Exchange; Captain Arthur Moren, of the River Coal company, and several members of Harbor No. 25 visited No. 8 yesterday after having looked over the ground at the proposed harbor line at New Cumberland. The new dam pleased the rivermen.

TAMPERING WITH JURY IS HINTED

Sensation Sprung In The W. L. Lenhart Case Now On Trial.

A sensation was sprung in the conspiracy case against William L. Lenhar yesterday afternoon, during the cross examination of the defendant, when Attorney Owen C. Underwood placed an offer on the records in which he stated the state would endeavor to show that William L. Lenhart had four different men in his employ staying at hotels where jurymen are staying for the purpose of looking after the defendant's interests in the case on trial. The defendant upon a question denied the assertion.

Another intimation thrown out by the commonwealth was that the defense had endeavored to influence one Allen Todd, a witness for the commonwealth. The defendant was asked if he was present at Mr. Irwin's office when he told Mr. Todd the subpoena was not legal. Mr. Lenhart said he did not know of Mr. Irwin telling Mr. Todd that. Nothing further was asked regarding this matter. The man was said to have tried to evade a subpoena. A constable was sent after him on Tuesday.

The defendant was on cross examination yesterday from 11:30 until court adjourned at 4:30, not including the noon hour, and in that time he was put through a severe grilling. Attorney Underwood fired one question after another and delved deep into his dealings with the People's Bank of California, with O. F. Piper and with other banks, his interests and management of the Chatland and Lenhart cracker firm, the W. S. Powers company, and everything in connection with his business and acts during the time he was securing the loans from the People's Bank of California. He was pinned down closely to tell just how much money he put into the Chatland and Lenhart company, the W. S. Powers company and how much he spent for personal purposes.

Following this cross-examination the business of the W. S. Powers company was taken up and Lenhart was closely cross-examined as to his connection with this firm, the money he put into it and other business transactions while he was treasurer of this company. It was brought out by the cross-examination that Lenhart borrowed money and had notes discontinued on the majority of the banks in and about Pittsburg.

When asked how much he yet owed the People's Bank of California, Lenhart replied about $31,000. He was then questioned relative to an alleged conversation at the office of Attorney Freeman, at which time he did not dispute that he owed the bank $30,000. He did not recall this conversation.

The defendant, who took the stand Wednesday afternoon, completed his direct testimony about 11:30 o'clock yesterday. He denied in his tetimony practically all that was testified to by Mrs. Cowell, except as to some minor details. He denied her testimony as to the frequent trips to California. A denial was also made of the testimony of G. O. Teeple, that he had ever opened his satchel on the train and displayed large sums of money. As to his ever showing Mr. Teeple

Edgar L. Ruth and William H. Hope, Youthful Pedestrians On Way To Pacific Coast.

Edgar L. Ruth, aged 22 years, of 240 Eighth street, Allentown, Pa., and William H. Hope, aged 25 years of 305 Phillips avenue, Carrick, arrived in Charleroi last evening and spent the night here enroute to San Francisco, Cal., walking the entire distance, which by the route the young men are taking is about 4000 miles. They will go through the South and expect to complete their journey within eighteen months. The youthful pedestrians intend walking back home following the route of the Northern Pacific railway. The trip is being taken principally as a sightseeing tour.

Ruth and Hope started from the downtown office of the Pittsburg Press Tuesday afternoon. They made very good time reaching Monongahela yesterday afternoon and coming on here in the evening.

All the expenses of the journey will be earned as the pedestrains progress. Ruth will easily be able to pay his way, being an electrician, sign painter and singer. However he will work at other things along the way. Hope will also secure employment in various lines along the route, to enable him to make enough funds to not only pay the daily expenses but have something over when they reach the coast.

The younger man is the most experienced in traveling. A few weeks ago he was one of a party of eight which started to walk from New York City to Savanna, Ga., and one of the three who completed the trip. The youths have a letter from Superintendent Thomas A. McQuaide of Pittsburg and several clippings from newspapers along the route passed through thus far.

Ruth and Hope left here this morning about 8:40 o'clock on their way to Brownsville and Uniontown. Larger points of their itenary are: Baltimore, Md., Wabington, D. C.; Richmond, Va.; Raliegh, N. C.; Macon, Ga.; Tallahasee, Fla.; Flomation, Ala.; New Orleans and Unice, La.; Beaumont, Houston, Galveston, San Antonio, Portworth and Wanrica, Tex.; Geary, Okla.; Tacumcari and Santa Rosa, N. M.; El Paso, Texas; Maricopa and Yuma, Ariz., and Los Angeles and San Francisco, Cal.

CHARLEROI BOYS ARE DISCHARGED BY THE COURT

William Gilmore and Scott Workman of Charleroi, charged with attempting to enter the wharf house of the Ohio and Monongahela Packet company at Charleroi were tried yesterday. Being bothered with thefts the company put a guard on last June. That night a crowd of young men was seen to approach the building, try the lock, and being frightened away by the approach of a steamer, hurried through a hedge nearby, tore a board off the ball park fence and went into that place. They were quickly followed by George Dawson, one of the guards, who succeeded in catching Workman and Gilmore. The defendants deny their guilt and claim they were just crossing the park, and that as they entered the crowd came through the fence. They did not run, they said, because there was no reason why they should run. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty.

Max Rubenstein, a young Hebrew, of Donora, of nice appearance, was tried yesterday on an ugly charge, on oath of Mrs. Flora E. Divens, a colored woman. Young Rubenstein is married and his wife sat with him during the trial. The defendant is of only medium stature and the negress is almost an Amazon. The testimony indicated that Rubenstein was not guilty, and the jury acquitted him and placed the costs on the private prosecutor.

The jury yesterday in case of commonwealth against Crawford Sarver, Ellsworth, found him guilty of assault and battery. He was sentenced to pay costs, fine of $10 and undergo imprisonment, in the county jail for a period of 60 days. Sheridan Malone was the private prosecutor and the trouble grew out of a drunken row.

Bert Humphries Touched Up For Fourteen Safeties.

When Fairmont went to the ball park yesterday they left all their respect for opposing slabmen at the hotel, and when they started pounding Bert Humphries they didnt know when to quit. Bert was hit so hard that several times it was plainly visible that he had sufficient but remained throughout the game. Hunt, who did the elegant for the Fairmonter's was very much of a puzzle, in fact so much so that until the seventh inning no Charleroi swatter but Nally was able to connect safely.

Fairmont registered their first run in the second inning. With one down Snodgrass singled and took second on Haughts out. Gates singled which sent him to third. When Dailey threw the ball away in his effort to catch Snodgrass at third the run came over. A single, a batter hit, a tripple and another for three sacks sent in three runs in the fourth. The seventh inning was the one in which the Fairmont boys tried to break up the game. With one down Hunt started the donigs with a single and when things were finished every player on the team had faced Bert, six hits for four runs being the result.

Nally was the only member of the Charleroi team that was able to connect with Hunts slants until the seventh inning. On his first visit Nally picked one off for three bases. After Cosgrove had skied to right Dunn and Dailey filled the bases by getting hit. It sure looked like at least two runs but two strikeouts by Toohey and Heinz killed all chances. In the third Nally again led off and hit to right field fence. The drive was good for two bags but he tried to make it three and was caught sliding into third. The next safe drive was in the sixth and it was Nally that got it, as he drove out a single over second base. Charleroi had three on in the ninth but could not avoid a shutout.

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES

Milk Ordinance Still On Table No Action Having Been Taken.

Few Cases Throughout Town Of Typhoid And Liptheria.

The Board of Health met last night and took up several matters under their supervision. Among the principal business was that of the milk ordinance which was presented to the borough council during the first part of June for action and which has not been taken up yet by that body. After discussing the matter at some length, a resolution was passed that attention of council should be brought to the matter and if possible have the ordinance passed and put into force. The Health Board argue that pure milk is something in which all the residents of this place are interested and should be protected by an ordinance, as in accordance with the state law. The borough council have been negligent in the matter and should take it up at the first opportunity. The ordinance was drawn up to go into effect the first of July, and was constructed so that it has most effect during the hot months of summer.

Health Officer Darby made a report of work in his hands. He stated that 37 nuisances had been abated since the last meeting. From reports it was learned that there are few cases of contagious diseases in the town.

ARRESTED FOR CRUELTY TO ANIMALS

He was fined $10 and costs or sentenced to jail for thirty days by Justice of the Peace Rice, before whom the case was heard.

Danger From Roots.

According to a report of the street commissioner of Charleroi, if something is not done soon towards providing a way to stop the growth of roots of thousands of Carolina poplars into the sewers and flush tanks of this place an entire new sewer system will have to be installed throughout town.

The residents of this place have purchased and planted these trees in front of their properties on account of their rapid growth and excellent shade furnished after they have matured, paying no attention to the danger to property afforded by the speedy growth of the roots. When a fiber once gets into a sewer, the root will on account of the dampness, spread more rapidly than ever, and if not cleaned out in a very short time clog the sewers and eventually burst the pipes. The roots are very fine and easily creep through a very small aperture.

A member of the borough council whose attention was called to the matter recently in a conversation expressed himself to the effect that action should be taken and that at once, and if nothing else an ordinance should be passed requiring the residents to kill their trees should they be found to be endangering the sewers of street or alley.

Many Americans who live in or near large cities would be surprised to hear it stated that the United States has the poorest roads of any civilized country in the world. Nevertheless, the satement is declared by all who have had opportunity to learn by experience to be unquestionably true, when the roads of the whole country are considered.

Lately there has been much criticism of the automobile as being destructive of good roads. The damage is so great that in France the government has been forced to take up the matter and is even now studying preventive plans.

In the United States, however, it may be that the automobile will yet prove a powerful influence for better roads. The American Automoobile Association recently held a two days good roads convention in Buffalo, at which provision was made for practical demonstation of the best methods of road building and repairing, and for experiments looking towards the discovery of a binding material for surfacing roads which will not be sucked out by pneumatic tires.

There are signs too that the old policy of throwing on the towns the burden of building the roads and keeping them in repair is to be superseded by the more senible plan of having the State do it. The towns will of course, care for their own streets but the main highways should be built and cared for by the State as they are in France, Germany and Switzerland.

The national government has decided to send the director of the Deparment of Roads to the international good roads convention which will open in France in October, and at which the problem of the automobile and the roads will receive special attention.

Despite the fact that the United States has established a reputation for many things in the industrial world, she is bested by Austria in providing for the safety of her miners. The law compels mine owners in that country to provide rescue chambers under ground and have each room large enough to accommodate 241 persons and must be provided with canned food and first aid appliances.

It might be an excellent idea for the mine owners of this up-to-date country in which we live, to seek the enaction of a law similar to that of Austria and thus secure the thousands of miners from many dangers.

IMPORTANT ARE CHANGES TO BE MADE IN SERVICE

Important changes in through and local passenger service are to be made by the initial lines when the fall time table becomes effective. Officials of the Pennsylvania lines east and west, the Baltimore and Ohio, the Pittsburg and Lake Erie and Wabash officials have already taken this matter up in a general way and a series of meetings will be held within the next few weeks, when definite action will be taken. Passenger officials of the various divisions and branch lines will hold their annual meeting early next month, at which time a list of proposed changes will be made. Arrangements will then be made to meet jointly with operating officials of the different divisions and the new time tables will become effective in October.

According to statements made yesterday the fall and winter time tables this year will be larger than in past years and the number of changes will be greater than in other years. This is due to the fact that practically all of the roads were obliged to issue supplements to the regular time table last year on account of the big decrease in local passenger business and the heavy increase in through traffic. On some roads local business was reduced almost one half on account of the closing of large industrial plants and the reduction in the office forces. More than a dozen suburban trains were taken off at one time by one of the local lines. Through business, however, is much heavier than in 1907, which was a banner year. For this reason additional through trains will be put on by certain lines, while on others the running time will be reduced

One of the interesting features in the fall schedule this year is the fact that the railroads will endeavor to maintain the regular summer schedule for running time throughout the winter. Heretofore it has been customary to lengthen the schedule during the winter, but the officials are confident that with the new equipment the fast schedule can be maintained during the cold weather and the experiment this year will have an important bearing upon through passenger schedules in future years.

WOMEN RELEASED ON BAIL

Somerset, Pa., Aug. 28.—District Attorney Miller announced yesterday after a conference with Judge Kooser that bail in $10,000 each for Mrs. Bonnie Rosenbloom and her daughter would be accepted. Louis of Charleroi and William Rosenbloom, the sons, now at Somerset, arranged with Harry Slutzker of Altoona to put up the bonds. Slutzker is the business man who in March bought the Rosenbloom store building in Windber and later arranged for the property to be restored to the Rosenblooms.

Deputy Sheriff Hanna left Somerset yesterday afternoon for Harrisburg to secure extradition papers to bring the Egler brothers from New York City.

Coroner Pitblado of Camden telegraphed to Johnstown yesterday: "Body was buried. Officals satisfied with Freidman's identification."

The Rosenblooms desire to give the body an Orthodox Hebrew burial in a Hebrew cemetery if it is proved beyond doubt to be their father. If they insist it will require exhumation.

Chief of Police McMullen of Windber now seems to think it is possible Alexander and the Eglers, if they committed the crime, did not ship the body away from Windber, but buried or hid it somewhere near Windber.

OFFICIALS INSPECT P. R. R. TRACKS

S. C. Long, general superintendent of the Western Pennsylvania division of the Pennsylvania railroad, accompanied by his staff, yesterday made a general inspection of tracks and shops along the divisions entering Pittsburg from the east. The inpsection party left the Union station early yesterday morning and went over the Monongahela division, the main line east and the Conemaugh divisions, as well as some of the other small branch lines east of Pittsburg.

Particular attention was given to the shops where the working force has been increased during the past week. The officials announced that they found the tracks in fairly good condition, although the appropriation for maintenance work this year is comparatively small. Supervisors are now getting the tracks in their respective districts in good condition for the winter traffic.

WEARY WILLIES WILL NOT BE PERMITTED

Any bum who sets his foot on Monessen soil must understand that he is trifling with danger, according to regulations of the police of that place. The police are out after all gents that look in the least suspicious. Of late it has been the custom for some travelers not having the neatest personal appearance to invade the residence sections of the town and make a house to house canvass asking for a handout at each place, but in many instances the mission is presented in a command rather than a request with the result that the lady of the house becomes badly frightened. Several times neigbhors have been called before the nobo would consent to leave the premises. It is such fellows as these that the police are after and when a suspicious looking individual thrusts his presence upon the community he must be able to give the proper account of himself or he is marched off to the lockup and a charge of vagrancy placed against him. This is one of the towns that has no use for the straggler.

Easier.

"That house I have taken from you," said the dissatisfied tenant, "is horribly drafty. When I am sitting in the middle of the room my hair blows all over my head. Can't you do something to the windows?"

"Don't you think, sir," replied the house agent suavely, "it would be easier and cheaper for you to get your hair cut?"—London Telegraph.

$5,000 he emphatically denied this, and said he never drew $5,000 in cash from the People's Bank of California.

A large number of notes and checks were placed in evidence by the defense to show that Lenhart had transacted businesss at the bank, had satisfied notes, and received back these notes. A number of checks were offered in evidence to show that he had deposited sums in other banks to his credit at the People's Bank of California, but that no record of these credits was made on the books of the California bank.

Miss McCormick, a teacher of Connellsville, spent a few days last week with Mrs. T. R. Duvall. Miss McCormick was the guest of Mrs. Ira Duvall of Coal Center.

ARMY OFFICER IN AUTOMOBILE

Driving the sturdy little Buick racing runabout in which he crossed the continental Divide and negotiated the sandy coasts of the American Desert on his trip from San Francisco to New York last spring, Lieutenant Stanley Lewis of the Arizona Rangers, honorary Colonel of the 16th Mexican Rurales, ex-major of Cuban revolutionits and well known as a writer of military topics for the Munsey publications, drove into Charleroi today, pausing for a brief overhauling of his machine by Spencer Bros. Mr. Lewis is enjoying a year's furlough from his duties in the "Rangers," who are an organization of hard-riding, straight-shooting border police, under the control of the war department but similar in scope to our own constabulary or the mounted police of Canada.

Colonel Lewis made a brief but pleasant call at the Mail office. He is intimately acquainted with the Hain's brothers who have gained such reputation in New York.

Miners and Tuberculosis.

A mining jorunal published at Scranton has been calling attention to the curious fact that in coal mining communities there is a marked deficiency in the mortality from tuberculosis as compared with that of other localities. This is a phenomenon that has also been observed in Great Britain, and attention has been drawn to it by B. H. Thwaite.

According to Mr. Thwaite, the effects noted may be due to the physiological effects of carbon monoxide, for he finds that men engaged about blast furnaces and gas producers are peculiarly free from tuberculosis trouble.

It is suggested in Mines and Minerals that the presence of carbon dust in the lungs may be a cause of production of CO. and that this will serve to explain that immunity of miners from the disease.

The tubercle baccillus is a creature of extreme tenacity of life. It is encased in a waxy integument, and is proof against even nitric acid, but [illegible] ers of diffusion that it can well be considered that carbonic oxide might reach the tissues of a treaure in subtle manner, for the gas cannot be perceived.

Garbage and Garage.

The other day Claude wrote: "Isn't it about time we were renewing our boyhood acquaintance? Send me a photograph of your home." Nothing loath, Frank ordered the town photographer to prepare 100 post card pictures of his home and surroundings, and of these sent a dozen different views to Claude. He did not discover until too late that three big garbage barrels were in the foreground. In a couple of weeks Claude sent a dozen views of his mansion to Frank, and in the foreground were three beautiful automobiles, with a marble garage hard by. "Only that small letter divides us," wrote the surgeon; "you have the garbage, I have the garage; I have the autos, you have the barrels." Frank, feeling rather humilated, telegraphed: "Garbage barrels a mistake of photographer, they belong to my neighbor." Claude replied: "Same with my autos and garage; got in by mistake; belong to my neighbor."—New York Press.

Air Ship at Butler.

Butler, Pa., Aug. 27.—With games and pool selling barred, as in former years, the Butler fair today had the largest attendance in its history. The record of 30,000 last year on the third day was exceeded by 10 per cent. Extra cars were run on the Pittsburg and Butler and the Pittsburg, Harmony, Butler and New Castle trolley lines and extra trains on the Baltimore and Ohio and Bessemer railroads.

At noon a sail was taken by Charles Hamilton in his airship. The ship was up for half an hour and was in perfect control. The crowds were orderly and little thieving is reported. Six confidence men got the "move on" order from the police this morning. Last night the homes of J. Neale and William Wagner were robbed of eatables.

Five Families Have Reunions.

Washington, Pa., Aug. 28.—Interesting family reunions were held in Washington county yesterday. That of the descendants of Rev. Dr. John McMillan was held at the Chartiers Presbyterian church. Three hundred descendants of John White gathered in Washington Park. Two hundred persons met at the old Swagler homestead, near Scenery Hill, where the first reunion of the Swagler family was held. The Paul family met at the home of Philip Cooper, near Van Buren, and the Swart family held its reunion at the residence of Mrs. Sarah Hornin South Franklin township.

Grocers Hit Hard.

Grocers who fail to keep screens over the goods displayed in front of their places are hard hit in the last issue of the Bulletin of the State Dairy Department. It is all because of the flies and bugs that are enabled thereby to trample at will over the food stuffs sold to customers. Flies in particular are declared to be carriers of diseases, and any grocer who will let them cross on the things he offers for sale is declared to be a bad one.

More business has come to the Ambridge works of the American Bridge company during the past week through the releasing of 4,000 tons of structural material of an existing contract with the Harriman railroads in the West. The bridge company has supplied a portion of the contract and some of it was held up. This additional 4,000 tons was a part of an order for 10,000 tons. It will require increased operations at the plant and enlarge the working force of men there.

Elizabeth Boy Disappears.

John Junn, fifteen years of age, has been missing from his home at Elizabeth for nearly three weeks. He is a step-son of Joseph Junn, and had complained frequently of ill treatment at his hands, telling his companions a number of times that he was going to run away from home. He had a dog to which he was greatly attached, and on the day of his disappearance, August 7, his stepfather told him he would have to kill it. The boy left that afternoon, saying he was going to see a game of baseball. That was the last seen of him at his home, and the dog disappeared with him.

After being absent a week, the dog made its appearance at the Junn home again, but nothing has been seen or heard of the boy. He was smart enough, before leaving home, to gather up all pictures of himself about the house and take them with him, so that no portrait of him could be made from any of them to aid in a search for him. His mother has been almost distracted over his absence, and has made every effort to find him. She has now taken her bed, sick [illegible] tigue of the search [illegible] his disappearance.

Making More Than a Living

Nearly every man who works steadily makes more than a living. During these slow times the men who have saved something appreciate what it is to have something laid away for a rainy day. A few cents a day soon counts up, and when savings are placed in a bank at a tidy interest the sum soon grows to proportions that make it a safeguard against want when work is not plentiful. Figure up how much more than a living you are making now, and place the difference in this bank. Four per cent. interest paid in savings department.

HIS MAGIC FAILED.

The Result Was Physically Painful and a Blow to His Reputation.

"One of the funniest things that ever happened to me," said the old magician, who was in a reminiscent mood, "occurred a number of years ago while I was making a tour of the country. At that time my favorite card was the box trick, where I allowed myself to be put in a sack, after which I was locked in a box, which was tied up and put in the cabinet, from which I emerged a moment later, bowing and smiling. It always brought down the house and was a subject for discussion long after I had left.

"Well, I gave my performance one night at a small town, and after the show was over I went to the little hotel and retired for the night, the old man who kept the hotel showing me to my room with all the deference that he would give to a king. The bed in the room was a folding one, and no sooner was I in than it closed up like a jack-knife, what was happening in time to roll to one side, so that when the bed closed it left my head out. But otherwise I was powerless, and there was nothing to do but yell for help, which I did to the best of my ability. Finally I succeeded in making the landlord hear me, and he came to the door and wanted to know what the matter was.

"'This cussed bed has shut up and caught me in it!' I shouted.

"'Waal, why don't ye git out?' he drawled.

"'I can't!' I bawled.

"'Humph! A feller what kin git out of a sack after he has been put in a box and locked up ought ter be able ter git out of a bed,' he answered.

"It took fifteen minutes' steady argument on my part to convince the old man that my skill in getting out of difficult places did not include folding beds, and even then he seemed to think I had caused him a lot of unnecessary trouble.

"All he said when at last he released me was:

"'Humph! Ye ain't ez big a man ez I thought ye wuz!'"—Detroit Free Press.

Baseball Fans.

"Dear me," remarked the perspiring old lady who was making her first visit to a baseball game, "I don't see how people can tell such terrible fibs."

"What now, auntie?" asked the city niece, in surprise.

"Why, the paper stated that there were thousands of 'fans' out here every afternoon, and I am suffering with the heat and can't find one."—Chicago News.

Wise Precaution.

The mercury was trying to ooze out at the top of the farmhouse thermometer, and the old farmer was pitching chunks of ice in the pond.

"What are you doing that for?" queried the summer boarder.

"That's t' keep th' pesky ducks from layin' hard b'iled eggs," answered the rural philosopher.—Pittsburg Post.

Inconsistent.

"Ye lazy loafer," cried big Mrs. Hoolahan, "stroike or no stroike I'll not hov ye standin' round doin' nothin'!"

"Well, well," meekly replied little Hoolahan, "'tis most curiasoitin' yo are. Last Chewsd'y ye told me if I didn't behave mesel' ye'd make me stand round, an' now that I'm doin' it ye kick."—Philadelphia Press.

A Matter of Policy.

"Yes," answered Senator Sorghum. "It is just as well. It conveys the impression that I have him beaten and can afford to be generous."—Washington Star.

THE CARD TRICK.

How They Say It Was Worked on an Austrian Official.

An amusing railway carriage joke is being told in Paris at the expense of M. Derschatta, the Austro-Hungarian minister of railways. The minister does not smoke and has a perfect horror of tobacco. What was his chagrin, then, on seating himself in a non-smoking carriage in a train near Vienna to see a fellow passenger light a large cigar.

The minister coughed insinuatingly without effect. The minister coughed more loudly and then as violently as he could. All in vain. The smoker continued to emit clouds.

"Sir," said the minister, "will you allow me to observe that this is a non-smoking compartment?" "Oh!" said the smoker. "Well, it doesn't matter." "But, sir, the authorities"— "The authorities? Oh, they don't matter." "Pardon me, sir, but I am the minister of railways. Let me give you my card."

The smoker took the card, read it and quietly put it in his pocket. "So you're the minister for railways?" he said. "Oh, well, that doesn't matter."

At the next station the minister called the station master and requested him to take the smoker's name. The smoker produced a card. The station master instantly became apologetic. "Pardon, your excellency," he said; "I did not know to whom I had the honor of speaking. If this fellow"—pointing to the minister—"bothers you, I will make him get out." The smoker gave a condescending gesture, and the train started again.

After a few minutes of utter amazement M. Derschatta realized that the smoker had given the official his (the minister's) card and, being possessed of a sense of humor, burst into a shout of laughter.

Castro's Palace of Steel.

President Castro lives in what is probably the most remarkable dwelling place of any modern ruler. It stands within a park at Caracas and is built almost entirely of steel. The outer walls are covered with a kind of soft stone; so, to look at, there is nothing peculiar about the place, but it is said to be the strongest house in the world, and it will resist the heaviest gun fire.

The idea of a steel "palace" occurred to the president after he had had experience of one or two earthquakes. One night he was awakened by an earth tremor, and in his fright he jumped out of a window and broke his leg. After that he decided that bricks and mortar were not safe; hence the reason for his metal abode.—London M. A. P.

Four Hours of Sleep Not Enough.

Thomas Edison says that four hours of sleep is enough for any one and that it is a waste of time to take any more.

So long, Thomas. Talk about something you are better qualified to discuss. Is your own health so wonderfully steady as to entitle your rules for living to be generally accepted? Wasn't it you who had a mastoid abscess the other day? You are only sixty-one years old. Any one with decent luck can live that long notwithstanding some abuse of natural strength. When you are ninety and still hale your habits of life will become interesting. Do you want people to sit up half the night to use your patent lamps and increase your royalties? Tut, tut, Thomas, don't be so greedy!—Life.

Indian Engineer.

A descendant of Tama's band of Musquakie Indians is now the engineer of a fast passenger train on the Burlington road. He is here on the same ground where his ancestors lived for many generations. He crosses the same rivers, surveys the same landscapes, observes the same phenomena of wind, temperature, storms, etc., that were familiar to his ancestors of centuries ago. He wears more clothes than they wore, and he speaks a different language, and he is serving civilization instead of barbarism. Few if any of the passengers who ride behind him know that a Tama Indian sits in the cab of the engine as it speeds over the prairies.—Burlington Post.

A Chef In a Box.

The old emperor of Austria pays his cook, Perski, $10,000 a year salary. This same Perski was once the cook of Count Rheingaum, and many years ago when the emperor of Austria was dining with the count he was struck with the way a certain boar's head was cooked and desired that the chef should be complimented. Two days afterward a huge packing case arrived at Schoenbrunn with Count Rheingaum's compliments. On being opened the case was found to contain Perski, a bit breathless, but otherwise all right. The emperor laughed at the joke, accepted the gift, and Perski has been the royal chef ever since.

A "Rat Week" Suggested.

Why can we not have "rat week" and let everybody in the United States devote the week, or as much time as possible within the week, to killing rats? It would be the best paying week's work from a money and health standpoint the people ever did. It would be a sanitary labor that would be farreaching in its effects, the benefits from which would be of a lasting character.—Staunton (Va.) Dispatch.

A WALPOLE ANECDOTE.

To Save the Woman's Life She Couldn't Recall Who Told It.

"I heard a very funny story the other night about Horace Walpole," said Mrs. Blake. "I wish I could remember who told it. Henry, can you remember? Was it Mr. Sellers?"

"No," said Blake stiffly; "it wasn't Sellers."

"I wonder if it could have been Mr. Windsor?"

"No," repeated Blake; "it wasn't Windsor."

Before Mr. Blake had a chance to express an affirmative or negative opinion of that hazard as to the source of the Walpole anecdote Mr. Barton came in. Mrs. Blake, being by that time sure of herself, tried on him her recipe for winning universal affection.

"Oh, Mr. Barton," she said, "I am very glad to see you. I have hardly stopped laughing since I saw you the last time."

Mr. Barton, a cadaverous man with solemn eyes, looked rather foolish.

"Indeed?" he said. "May I ask what about?"

"Over that funny story you told about Horace Walpole," said Mrs. Blake.

"M-m-m—Horace Walpole?" stammered Mr. Barton. "I am afraid you must have got me mixed up with someone else. I don't know anything about Horace Walpole, and if I did know anything funny about him I couldn't tell it. To tell a funny story is beyond my powers. Even if it was funny to start with it wouldn't be by the time I got through with it."

Mrs. Blake's spirits were somewhat dashed by her fiasco in finding an owner for the Walpole story, but she bore up courageously, and later when Mr. Markham came in she drew him out of earshot of Mr. Barton and dilated on the pleasure his story of Horace Walpole had given her. Mr. Markham was not cast in the funeral mold that gave to Mr. Barton his grave aspect, but he protested himself totally incapable of telling a funny story about Horace Walpole or anything else.

Presently Mrs. Blake left the room to prepare the sandwiches. Mr. Blake followed her.

"For the love of the Lord," he said, "don't make a fool of yourself again by trying to get some other idiot in there to father that Walpole story. I told you that yarn myself."

Mrs. Blake stood still, with carving knife poised in air.

"You?" she said incredulously. "And it was so clever too."—New York Times.

Silage For Beef.

Everywhere the feeding of silage to dairy cattle and beef cattle, horses and hogs is attracting each year more and more attention. The Ohio experiment station has recently completed a test in which it was established that corn silage under the conditions of the experiment had a value of $4.63 per ton in feeding for beef. In view of this, let any one not feeding silage consider what he is losing when an acre of corn makes ten to fifteen tons of silage.

Green Food For Poultry.

The value of green food for poultry lies in the aid it renders the digestion of other foods and in the effect of distending or adding bulk to the ration, besides affording various and valuable nutrients, particularly protein, which food constituent is indispensable in the growth of any animal. Protein is the basis of muscle, and any growing animal in order to thrive must have the required amount.
